“ I have known Vikki and Ben during out times in Michigan and Indiana. Vikki and I were colleagues and I got to know Ben through her. He was such a loving, caring person and his smile and laughter were infectious. He could cheer you up just by being around you.

He will be sorely missed!

“ Vikki, all we can say is we thank our Heavenly Father Jesus Christ, that Ben is no longer in pain. He fought a good fight, and you were right there by his side the whole time. None of us knew from the outside, what had been going on with Ben for so long, but now he is in peace. We will truly miss the times of fellowship, and the many laughs, dinners, movies, cards, and concerts, with the spontaneity that made for fun times for the four of us. But, we look forward to our continuing a long lasting friendship with you!

*We Love you always sis,
Robin & Ron*

“ I’m sending you prayers at this time of reflection and grief. Ben had a way of making us think he would be here forever. How can your world exist without him. And yet, here we are. I believe families are forever and eternal. I’m keeping you in my prayers. May the comforter bring you peace. Much love sent. Charlotte

“ Ben Junior was my brother-in-law and friend. He had such a quiet personality and a jolly quiet laugh. He loved his wife, and whenever I was with them I saw him treat her with the upmost respect. He loved his entire family. I am going to miss you Ben....RIP

“ My condolences to all who were touched by Ben during his life on this earth. He will be remembered as a man who was kind, compassionate, giving and loving to all who were fortunate to have met him. As a friend, I witnessed Ben as a man that was not only a loving husband and father, but as an unconditional friend, who would offer his hand when needed, without expectation of return. He was indeed a kind and loving soul. I met Ben through his wife Vikki, who I was fortunate to have met as my first professor while attending graduate school. That professional role blossomed into a life long friendship, which included the meeting of Ben and his friendship with my husband, Roger. The four of us shared many good times and laughs throughout the years. I can still see and hear Ben's laugh, lightening my heart. I remember the trip that the four of us took to Cabo San Lucas, in which Ben and Vikki were wise enough to not get sucked into the 40 year timeshare that Roger and I were not strong enough to resist. When together, we would often reminisce, with laughter, the the memory of champagne bottles popping, the tears of the sales people, as we closed the deal on our forty-year boat anchor. Oh, what we learned about one another, and memories we held surrounding that weekend. However, despite that foolish expenditure, on our part, it was worth every laugh and embellishment we added to that story to suit our brand of humor. During another social encounter, Ben was gracious enough to put up with all of our jokes and banter surrounding the senior tub and shower ensemble in his and Vikki's home, which Vikki wanted to replace and Ben wanted to keep. Ben received numerous texts and pictures to remind him of that tub discussion. Vikki, do you still have that tub??? If so, you now will never be able to change it. Ben will be missed.... Until we meet again, Ben. Fortunately, you will live in my heart forever.

“ Ben was a great friend of ours. His infectious smile and laughter reflected the sincere person he was. When we went to Vegas, Ben and Vikki came and took us to their newly bought home and then to a visit at Red Rock Casino followed by a great lunch outing. Ben and Vikki also visited us in Chicago and had lunch and of course more fun talk. Ben had the great talent and ability to make any conversation upbeat and pleasant. Family was the buzzword for him.

We talked frequently on phone and as usual laughed and had fun. Our last talk was almost 20 days before Ben found peace with God. He was quite the same fun person even with almost unbeatable odds staring on him. It is my privilege to say that Ben & Vikki are my close friends. I am sure that Ben is smiling at us from heaven. Rest in peace my friend.

“ Aunt Vicky I’m so sorry about the passing of your soulmate uncle Ben. He was a great and humble man of God whom I’m so grateful was in your life as a partner, lover, friend, mate, leader , protector and husband! A great example of manhood.

I know you’re missing him and this hurts but earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal, and you will heal and the sorrow will fade and the good times and memories of him will have no competition!... love you Aunty and Rest well until we see you again uncle Ben!
