“ Thinking of you Keimarre You are never forgotten! I tried to smile to keep from crying at your funeral but I just ended up looking crazy,lol. Nothings the same anymore, the family is so distant and I’m no better cause the moment anybody does anything wrong I isolate myself. This world is so cold and I knew that when what happened to you happened but lately I just keep getting reminded. I miss your joy mane, you always had a sense of family. Wishing you were here, even your grandpa changed he been pushing everyone away since you passed and I hate it. I’m scared to lose anyone else, sometimes I don’t feel it the grief or whatever they call it but other times it’s hitting me like a pound of bricks. I love you so much probably more than I love anyone else in this world right now. - Your Auntie Keyera
