

Patrick Fitzgerald Clark

April 29, 1967 - May 2, 2025

OBITUARY

Patrick Fitzgerald Clark was born in Las Vegas, Nevada on April 29, 1967, to Patricia D. Clark, who preceded him in death, and George Johnson Jr. Patrick departed this life on May 2, 2025.

As a native of Las Vegas, Nevada, Patrick attended Eldorado High School. While attending this school, he played on the varsity basketball team, where played the position of point guard. Patrick was known for his exceptional basketball skills and was often compared to the famous NBA Player, Spud Webb.

For many years the name Pat Clark was synonymous with classic cars, pretty women, and the street life.

In his younger years, Patrick was incredibly popular, and his name was known throughout the community.

Patrick had a larger-than-life personality and was full of fun, love and laughter. If he wasn't telling some crazy story, pulling a ridiculous prank on someone, he was somewhere showing off his crazy dance moves.

Patrick was a lover of old classic cars and his collection of old cars was truly impressive.

Despite his involvement with street life and culture, Patrick held on to many of the traditional values that he was raised with.

Patrick was a loving and kind person, who believed in treating others with dignity and respect. He also had a tremendous love for his family, friends, and loved ones. Patrick was a very generous man, who often loaned and gave away money, cars, and equipment to his friends, family and associates.

Patrick was also a very dedicated and committed father. Despite having numerous children (19+), Patrick maintained an active and involved role in childrens' lives. Throughout his life, Patrick worked a variety of jobs. In his earlier years, he worked in sales. He was also previously employed as a security officer. For a period of time, Patrick also worked in building and construction. Additionally, Patrick was part owner of a record label. In his later years, Patrick was employed at Amazon, where he worked as a warehouse worker.

Patrick was a man, who strongly believed in Christ. He reaffirmed his faith on July 28, 2024, when he was baptized by Apostle Kimberly Scott and Pastor Zachery Scott.

He leaves to cherish seven daughter(s) Janiqua Clark, Katrina Woods, Adrianna Ventura of Atlanta, Georgia, Keoasha Porter, Nakia Gaston, Patrianna Clark, Ciara Foust, Charlaiah Clark and four sons, Patrick Clark II, KeJuan Clark, D'ozare Sanford, Nyeviar Thower, etc... all of Las Vegas, Nevada.

He also leaves three sisters: Katrina R. Clark, Tina Williams, Georgreasa Johnson, all of Las Vegas, Nevada. He also leaves one brother, Torrance T. Clark, of Las Vegas, Nevada. Patrick also leaves to mourn a host of grandchildren, nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends.

Although Patrick never officially married, he had one true love, Ms. Rashawndra "Boo" Gaston, with whom he shared his life with for more than 20 years.
